

OTHER STUDIES

COLLEGE MAJOR

For students who wish to pursue interdisciplinary studies not available under established majors, The University of Virginia's College at Wise offers the College Major Program. This program is under the general supervision of a College Major Review Committee appointed by the Dean of the Faculty. Students accepted into this program are designated College Majors. Examples of College Majors are:

Appalachian Studies

Communication and Natural History combined

English and Humanities combined

English and Library Science combined

History and Philosophy combined

Physical Education and Related Studies

Students who elect this program must make application according to the following governing rules:

1. The student must recommend a Supervisory Committee consisting of at least three faculty members. The committee must be representative of the student's areas of interest and must be approved and appointed by the Dean of the Faculty.
2. Written application to the College Major Review Committee should be made no later than the fourth semester of residence (or equivalent), and must be made prior to the attainment of 75 semester hours of credit toward the degree. A minimum of three full-time semesters must be devoted to the program.
3. The proposed academic program must meet the following criteria:
 - a. It is genuinely unique and not readily pursued within an existing major program.
 - b. It is a logical, consistent, and coherent approach toward a well defined educational objective.
 - c. It includes at least 48 semester hours of upper division courses.
 - d. It satisfies the general education requirements for a baccalaureate degree.
 - e. It includes, in lieu of the traditional major, a major plan of study of at least 42 semester hours, none of which may be used to satisfy general education requirements.
 - f. It is realistic with regard to the staff and library resources of the College.
4. All courses in the proposed program (item 3e) should normally be completed at UVa-Wise and may not be taken under the credit-no credit option. Waiver of this requirement must be in accordance with item 6 below.

5. The proposed program and all revisions must be approved by the Supervisory Committee, the College Major Review Committee, and the Dean of the Faculty.
6. Any deviation from these rules must be approved by the College Major Review Committee and the Dean of the Faculty.
7. Additional information and application forms are available in the Office of the Dean of the Faculty.

ABINGDON PROGRAMS

Director: Vacant

The University of Virginia's College at Wise offers bachelor's degrees in Abingdon, Virginia, at the Southwest Virginia Higher Education Center. Students may enroll in courses leading to degrees in one of the six majors currently available: Accounting, Business Administration, Computer Information Systems, History, Nursing, and Psychology. Abingdon classes are taught by the regular faculty of UVa-Wise and are scheduled primarily in the evenings or on weekends to accommodate working adults.

Students transfer in to the Abingdon Programs after having completed their lower-level courses at the community college or other four-year college or university. Junior and senior-level courses are offered in Abingdon. Offices are located in the Southwest Virginia Higher Education Center on the campus of Virginia Highlands Community College, near Exit 14 of Interstate 81, in Abingdon. More information is available from (276) 469-4017 or (800) 792-3683 and from UVa-Wise, One Partnership Circle, P.O. Box 1987, Abingdon, VA 24212. Website address: www.swcenter.edu.

COOPERATIVE EDUCATION (INTERNSHIPS)

Coordinator: Katherine E. Elkins

The Cooperative Education Program supplements classroom studies by providing work experience related to a student's academic major. Financial compensation may or may not be received for the work performed. Students must be of junior status and must spend two full semesters at UVa-Wise before undertaking cooperative education. This requirement may be waived by the appropriate department chair and the

OTHER STUDIES

Dean of the Faculty. After the second semester, students may work part time while continuing attendance at the College or alternate semesters of full-time attendance at the College with semesters of full-time work. The course numbers 387, 388, 487, and 488 have been reserved in all academic disciplines for the possible granting of academic credit for cooperative education. A maximum of 12 semester hours may be counted toward a degree. Academic credit may be applied toward an academic major by prior approval of the appropriate department chair. Students considering cooperative education should contact the department chair for specific departmental guidelines. Course descriptions for cooperative education taken as general electives are:

GNEL 387, 388: Cooperative Education Project I (1-6 semester hours)

Prerequisite: Junior standing and approval of the appropriate Department Chair

Academic credit granted for a special project conducted in connection with a cooperative education work experience under the supervision of a faculty member and approved by the chair of the department of a student's major field. Each department will determine the total number of hours to be counted toward the major. Offered for credit-no credit only.

GNEL 487, 488: Cooperative Education Project II (1-6 semester hours)

Prerequisite: Senior standing and approval of the appropriate Department Chair.

Academic credit granted for a special project conducted in connection with a cooperative education work experience under the supervision of a faculty member and approved by the chairman of the department of the student's major field. Each department will determine the total number of hours to be counted toward the major. Offered for credit-no credit only.

LEADERSHIP AND SERVICE

To provide students with an opportunity to develop their leadership skills as well as gain an understanding and appreciation of service to others, courses in leadership and service learning have been created. Students will work under the supervision of a faculty member, first to participate in a class project and ultimately to design their own projects. For classes with a service learning component, see the Service Learning Coordinator.

LDSP 100: Introduction to Community Leadership (1)

Participation in and reflection upon a service project benefitting the surrounding community. Project to be planned and supervised annually by Service Learning Coordinator. Project launched at start of semester and revisited mid-semester, with provision for reflection upon role of service in community and role of educated individuals in their communities. Offered for credit/no credit only.

LDSP 300: Leadership and Service: Service Internship (2)

Prerequisite: Sophomore or junior standing.

A service internship for students involved in mentoring new students at UVa-Wise. Student mentors apply for the position upon recommendation from professors, work individually with LART instructors, assisting and advising freshmen, organizing workshops in study skills, notes, test-taking, etc. This is a service class.

LDSP 391: Studies in Leadership (3)

Prerequisite: LDSP 100 or LDSP 300, or permission of instructor.

Independent student service project conducted under faculty supervision. Project to have specific goals and a significant component of oral or written reflection/presentation focusing on outcomes. Project may be related to area of major instruction.

LIBERAL ARTS

All regularly admitted first-time freshmen, and transfers with less than 24 credit hours, enroll in Liberal Arts 195 (LART 195) classes. These classes, especially crafted by members of the faculty, cover a wide range of topics. Students may select the course that best fits their interests or major. Entering freshmen who are admitted on a provisional basis register for a student success section of LART 195. The faculty member for that course serves as the student's advisor until he or she declares a major.

LART 195: Special Topics: Introduction to the Liberal Arts (1)

Entering students are introduced to the academic environment through an investigation of an academic area. The course is designed to instill responsibility for educational progress and development.

LART 295: Special Topics (1)

Designed to assist students who wish to improve their academic performance, Lart 295 concentrates on developing learning strategies and individual responsibility, and may include requirements for other kinds of academics assistance.

INTERDISCIPLINARY STUDIES

MINOR IN APPALACHIAN STUDIES

Coordinator: David L. Rouse

A minor in Appalachian Studies is available to give students an opportunity to explore the natural history, cultural history and future of the Appalachian Region in order to understand and celebrate those aspects that are unique of special; and to fit the region into the broader context of the nation and world. Effective leadership for the future of the Appalachian region as a viable environment and culture will come from those who understand the potential and the limitations of the region.

Students may develop a minor in consultation with the Appalachian Studies coordinator and the advisor of the academic major, using the following guidelines:

- I. Adherence to the college policy on minors (pages) requiring 18 semester hours at least 12 of which must be 300 level and above. Courses applied to requirements for a major may not be applied to a minor.
- II. Courses chosen should provide a coherent approach to a well-defined educational objective. Focus may be on specific areas, such as art, literature, natural history, political philosophy, sociology, or combination of these.
- III. The program must be realistic in terms of course availability, staff and library resources.
- IV. Courses used for the minor normally should be chosen from the following list. Other courses, including special topics, independent and studio projects, may be approved if they can be justified as consistent with student's specific goals. New courses appropriate for this minor may be developed and added to this list.
