CAVS AIM to CONTINUE WINNING WAYS

UVA-Wise will aim to record its second four-game winning streak of the 2006 season on Saturday afternoon. The Highland Cavaliers will trek to Williamsburg, Kentucky to face a program they have faced more than any other in the University of the Cumberland.

The two squads come off opposite results from last weekend. After a slow first half, UVA-Wise racked up 42 second half points to route West Virginia Tech, 45-6. The Cavs opened the season with four victories, stumbled twice before returning to the win column on the road at Shorter and Pikeville before last week's victory.

The Patriots have been one of the hottest teams of the Mid-South Conference after the opening three weeks. University of the Cumberland had pieced together four wins in a row of its own before Pikeville College came to town and surprised them on Homecoming, 31-6.

CAVS POSTED MOST WINS IN A DECADE

The Cavs entered rarified territory last weekend. UVA-Wise claimed its seventh win of the year. The win total is the third most in a season as the program posted back-to-back 10-win years for 1995 and 1996. The victory total is also equal to the last two seasons totals combined.

UVA-WISE JUMPS THREE SPOTS IN NAIA RANKINGS

For the fourth time in the 2006 season, UVA-Wise will enter the weekend in the NAIA national rankings. The Highland Cavaliers jumped three spots to 21st from 24th in the NAIA national rankings. The 67 points the Cavs received is the most points since the squad vaulted to 18th after not being ranked back five weeks ago.

CAVS TRY TO REVERSE THE TREND IN SERIES OF RUNS WITH THE PATRIOTS

UVA-Wise has not played any other opponent on the gridiron in its now 16 years of football than the University of the Cumberland. The two teams will be meeting for the 13th time and the series could not be more even with each program claiming six victories although the Patriots lead in points of the series, 333 to 300.

The 12 contests have seen three streaks including one current one. The University of the Cumberland won the opening two games in 1993 and 1994. UVA-Wise went on a six-game run from 1995 through 2000 including a 48-7 win in Williamsburg in 1999.

The Patriots head into the meeting now on a four-game win streak over the past 4 seasons, all convincing wins and three of the contests played in Wise. In the four games, Cumberland has outscored UVA-Wise 196-51 including a 40-17 victory a year ago as well as the most points scored in the series of 76-21 in 2004.

UVA-Wise is 3-2 in Williamsburg with a 129-95 scoring advantage.

Week 4

UVA-Wise 59, Cumberland (TN) 42

WISE, VA -- Ra'Shad Morgan dashed to a record-setting 289 yards rushing and four TDs to help UVA-Wise race to its best start on the gridiron in a decade. Morgan was the engine in the Cavs' potent offense for a 59-42 win over Cumberland University.

UVA-Wise took its season mark to a perfect 4-0 and the first time the program has started with four wins since recording a 10-0 regular season in 1996, the team's last NAIA playoff appearance. The Cavs' 59 point effort this afternoon is the most points they have scored since defeating the Newport Apprentice School, 63-7, in the fifth game of the 1999 season.

Morgan totaled his 289 yards rushing on 34 carries to shatter the old UVA-Wise single game rushing record of 248 yards set by Greg Thomas vs. Tusculum in 1996. The junior found the endzone on scampers of 51, 36, 4 and 12 yards to take his season total to 14 touchdowns.
